REASONS FOR RIBBILITY.

BY E. M. FITZGERALD.

"Why do you laugh so much?"
Sweetest, I'm happy when I can,
I'm merry while I may,
For life's at most a narrow span,
At best a winter's day.
If care could make a sunbeam wear A brighter, warmer hue,
The evening star shines out more fair,
The blue sky looks more blue, Then I should grow a graver man—But since 'tis not the way, Sweetest I'm happy while I can,
And merry while I may.

It might make us in the less, Perchance I were not glad;
If musing were the sage's dream, My garb should still be sad;
But since the angel wings are white,
And even the young saint smiles—Since virtue wears a brow of light, And vice a robe of guile—Since laughter is not under ban, Nor goodness clad in grey,
Sweetest I'm happy when I can,
And merry while I may!

I've seen a happy child a reel,
And a sinner fast and grey;
A knave at top of fortune's wheel,
And a good man cast away.
Wine have I seen give ones quaff Might set our spirits afloat;
But I never heard a hearty laugh From out a villain's throat;
And I never knew a faithful man Make sad a young maid's day; So let me be happy when I can,
And merry while I may.

From the Baltimore Sun.

AN EVEN SWAP.

There is a time in the trade of those moulders of gentility, except tailors, which they technically denominate "cumbertime." During this period, which extends from the latter end of July to the end of August, business is at a complete stand, and scarcely a stitch is taken, unless it be to "bush" the unmentionables of some unfortunate bachelor, who has neglected the advice that "a stitch in time saves nine." It was upon one of these idle days, that a merchant tailor in a certain business street in this city, was standing listlessly behind his counter, clipping into shreds and patches a piece of list with a pair of shears that were rusted with long disuse. He thought of heavy outstanding bills and incoming debts, he called to mind the busy hours he had spent in taking the dimensions of his early sprigs of fashion, and padding them into shape according to Gutter; he looked into his dusty shelf and cast an eye this old goose, and avowed that the first customer that applied, he would bargain with upon his own terms. The vow was scarcely recorded by the commissioner of such deeds, when a man entered the store, and the worthy proprietor rejoiced that his vow had been heard. "Look here," said the person, a man of no large dimensions, but with a roughish twinkle in his eye, "I want a suit of clothes; these I have on are rather shabby, but I have got no money to pay for a new suit." "In any way that will suit you sir." "I may inquire what business you are in?" "I am a planter," was the reply, "and have deposited a large crop in the city, which yields me a handsome income, and is insured by a bank that covers it. I will, however, give you a house that I'll warrant will last you longer than you live, if you'll give me a suit of the best black cloth."
"I'll extremely happy to take your measure sir. You shall have as many suits as you can wear for a year." The cloth was selected, the measure taken, and the tailor rubbed his hands with joy at having obtained so good a bargain. The clothes were to be completed by the next day, and the "journ" the "back and stay crook" and the "boss," were as busy as niggers. All night they worked, and as rapidly flew their stitches that the friction of the silk almost set the cloth on fire, and the needles waxed so warm that their fingers were nearly burnt into blisters. At day break the suit was finished, and it was a rig fit for an emperor. About ten o'clock the little man popped in. He looked around with a quick glance, & spying the toggery he had ordered he had approached and felt it a business kind of manner. "What's that?" said he,
"wool dyed?" "What's that?" said he,
"fit you like a glove." "Let's try it on." No sooner said than done. The clothes were on him, and as he surveyed his improved appearance in the glass, he gave a nod of approval to the skillful manufacturer of gentlemen. "That'll do, what's the bill?"
"Fifty dollars, sir, on the account. You will please give me a bill of sale of the house you speak of, and I will give you a receipt for the amount and sign an agreement to furnish you with any amount of clothing during a year." "Oh, the house. Very well.
How tall are you?" "Six feet. Five feet six." "Well, I'm sexton, and any time you choose to call, or any of your friends bring you to my plantation, I'll dig so cool and comfortable a grave for you that you will sleep like an Egyptian mummy." The tailor stood aghast. "Is that the trade we bar-tered for?" "Certainly. You'll want my services some of these days, and I want yours now. You can have your pay as soon as you like, and the sooner the better, for I hate to be in debt, and should like to discharge the obligation. Business is dull just now, so if you can come soon, I'll have time to accommodate you in the best manner." This was a denoument little expected. The tailor was glad to get rid of his cute customer by taking his own word for the payment, and awears he will never do another job on trade.

REMARKABLE INSTANCE OF LONGEVITY.

—In the year 1809, there were living on the banks of the Redbank Creek, in the adjoining county of Armstrong, a man named Ezekiel Mathews, and his wife, both of whom had passed their hundredth year.
Mr. Mathews' age was 103; his wife about one year younger. They both retained their mental and physical faculties to a remarkable degree. The old gentleman employed himself in reading and walking about, and the old lady in twirling her favorite spinning wheel. How much longer they survived our informant does not know.
Within less than three miles of the spot occupied by this aged couple, there lived another pair, then far advanced in years, but who continued in life and companionship until 1837, when their candles went out within three weeks of each other. Their names were Henry and Catherine Nulff.
Mr. Nulff's age, at the time of his death, was 105 years; Mrs. Nulff's 103. They had been man and wife for 30 years; and had supported themselves with the labor of their own hands, until within one year of their decease. Their sons and daughters were aged people, and they saw their descendants of the fifth generation.

We know of no instance of longevity in modern times so remarkable as these; and we think it questionable whether a man and wife, both centenarians, could be found in the world. Yet here were two such couples almost in sight of the smoke of each other's cottages.—Pittsburg Advocate.

THE METHODISTS—THEIR CENTENARY.

The Methodist movement, by some 300, 000, any other denomination of christians, their aggregate number being nearly 700, 000, and are increasing and spreading with a rapidity almost incredible. In Texas even they number a thousand members, of whom over half are collected into classes, and regularly organized. Their centenary celebration commences this month; and we notice one paper, in referring to it says, that three hundred thousand voices will respond to the call in England; in the United States and Canada, seven hundred and fifty thousand more. Ireland will furnish twenty-seven thousand celebrators, and the foreign missions of the European continent, Western and Southern Africa, Ceylon, the Indes, East and West, South American, British America, Texas, Oregon, and the Isles of many seas—their quotas, each and all.—N. Y. Sun.

FALLING STARS.—During the nights of the 9th and 10th of August, the heavens were borewashed with little falling stars of extraordinary brightness. Mr. Foster counted about 600. It is not a little singular that the remnants of Perseus, Scylla, have been believed, for ages past, that St. Lawrence tears of fire, which fell from the sky every year on his feast (the 10th of August).

This ancient popular German tradition, on observation, has been found within these few years to be a fact, which engages the attention of astronomers. The inhabitants of Brussels can bear witness that on the night of the tenth of this year, St. Lawrence shed abundance of tears.—Brussels paper.

A gentleman whose house was repairing, went one day to see how the job was getting on, and observing a quantity of nails lying about, said to the carpenter, "Why don't you take care of these nails they'll certainly be lost." "No," replied the carpenter, "you'll find them in the bill.—Cin.

Buckeye.

A gentleman of our city, owns or owned a negro woman in whom the process of absorption of the coloring matter which tinges the skin of the African black, has been going on for years. The removal of the coloring matter is however imperfect and in-regular; it takes place in patches, giving to portions of her arms and legs a pure white appearance, which contrast unattractively and disagreeably with the jetty hue of the surrounding surface. We presume the slave in question will never become entirely white —but the case is curious, as being illustrative of the mode in which nature performs this singular work—viz: by absorption of the black pigment from which the skin of the negro derives its color.—N. O. Bee.

POST NOTES.—As the probable course of our city banks, in relation to an issue of drafts or notes, payable after date, appears to be exciting some discussion at the present time, we have taken occasion to consult with some of the officers of those institutions, and are assured that they have no such measures in contemplation. They are satisfied that it could result in no possible benefit to the community or themselves.— Cin. Gaz.

GALLANTRY.—A young chap from 'the bush, a short time since, thought he must show his gallantry & take his duties to the city of notions whether he had never been As he was passing a restaurant he espied some buxom drinking of soda. So in steps Sam, with his lady, and says: "Less have some of that ere." Kish—sis—her—went to the soda, which soon found its way to the stomach of the beau, all full of effervescence as it was. Setting the glass on the stand, the buck turned round to his deer, (who had modestly retired a pace), and said, as he wiped his mouth with his coat sleeve, "I'll tell ye what it is, Sal that ere soddy is darn'd good—why don't you buy some."

OIL.—Pure sperm oil, whether summer fall or winter strained, invariably burns well if the temperature is not colder than at the time it was pressed. There are no poor sperm whales. All the oil procured from them burns well, and without fouling the wick. When people, therefore, find the wicks of their lamps "gummed up," as the phrase is, they may be sure they have been imposed upon by black fish oil, which is not worth more than fifty cents per gallon.—N.

Y. Star.

DEPARTURE OF THE AFRICANS.—The

Hartford Courant says that the blue a-taken on board of the Amistad, who have been in jail for the last two weeks, left on Saturday Morning for New Haven, with the exception of Cinques, the leader. He took a seat with a driver of the New Haven stage in the afternoon.

HIDDEN TREASURE.—A man in Brigham,

Mass., in digging for wood chucks, unearthed a metal kettle, containing near three pecks, by measure, of old coin of various denominations, about one third of which was gold, and the remainder silver. The vessel was so completely decomposed, as to be of no strength and barely to retain its form.
We do not understand whether the exact amount of money has been ascertained.

RESPECT FOR THE MEMORY OF JUDGE B.

—A meeting of the Typographical Fraternity, and all persons connected with the press in this city, was held at Moody's Washington Hotel, South Pearl street, last evening, for the purpose of making arrangements for a suitable mark of respect to the memory of the late lamented Judge Burr, Esq.—Ad. Sun.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT LONDON.—London is the largest and richest city in the world, occupying a surface of thirty-two square miles, thickly planted with houses, mostly three, four and five stories high; it contained in 1831 a population of one million four hundred and seventy one thousand nine hundred and forty-one. It consists of London city, Westminster city, Finsbury, Marlybone, Tower Hamlets, Southwark, and Lambeth districts. In 1834 there entered the ports of London three thousand seven hundred and eighty-six British ships, one thousand two hundred and eighty

PORTA.—Have the courage to appear poor, and you will find it in the eyes of the vulgar, but it will not be in the eyes of the wise and good. A good and well cultivated mind is greatly preferable to rank or riches. Happy would the poor man think himself, if he could enter into the treasures of the rich; and happy would the rich man think himself, if he could enter into the troubles of the poor. This is a pressure which he is obliged to bear, and some fears are entertained of their breaking. This is a pressure which he is obliged to bear, and some fears are entertained of their breaking. This is a pressure which he is obliged to bear, and some fears are entertained of their breaking.

THE RIGHT KIND OF PRESSURE.—The Germantown Telegraph says: "There is a tremendous pressure throughout Pennsylvania just now: the poor barns groan under the loads which they are obliged to bear, and some fears are entertained of their breaking. This is a pressure which he is obliged to bear, and some fears are entertained of their breaking. This is a pressure which he is obliged to bear, and some fears are entertained of their breaking."

KINDERNESS OF HIS MAJESTY OF BAVARIA.—A German named Huggins, lately arrived at Baltimore, from Bremen, has been brought up for stealing 140 guilders of a fellow passenger. He confessed he was a convict from Bavaria, and had been shipped off on conditions of his going to America!—N. Y. Star.

THE N. Y. Herald states that "The Chelsea Bank, one of the institutions under the new banking law, has suspended specie payments. On Friday last, they permitted their notes to be protested to the amount of $77, by Mr. Cooper, a notary public, and $100 more were refused payment to-day."—Troy Mail.

END OF THE WORLD.—An exchange says: "The Rev. William Miller is at Lowell, Massachusetts, holding forth on his favorite theory, that the world is to be destroyed in 1843. It is not true, as stated in some of our exchange papers, that he made a mistake of a hundred years in his calculation; the final consummation of all things, according to his doctrine, will unquestionably take place in the year aforesaid. Mr. Miller says there will not be the slightest hope in another world, for those who are then in arrears for newspaper subscriptions. We tremble for many of our subscribers!"—Cin. Dispatch.

CAPT. APPELBY left town this morning, in the steamer Sandusky, for Ohio. He was in custody of Sheriff McKnight, and two assistants, from Sandusky, who will conduct him in safety to his place of destination. Miss Westfall was expected to have arrived here this morning on her way west, but did not reach town in time to accompany the party. There is no doubt, however, of her intention to be present when the subject is presented to the Grand Jury. Mrs. Appleby was in company with her husband, and appears to be plunged in deep affliction. —Buff. Post.

A few short weeks ago, and the Julia Palmer entered our harbor ship-rigged and to all appearance "a gallant bark." She is now a veritable steamboat, and will take her station among her competitors on Thursday next. Although not decorated with unassuming gew-gaws or flame grained panels to catch the eye, she is nevertheless respectably fitted up, and will prove to be a comfortable conveyance. Captain Freeman is to have command. —Buff. Post.

WOODEN TYPE.—PRICE REDUCED.—D. Wells & Co., 25 Ann St., New York, inform the Printers of the United States, that by the aid of their Machine Type Cutter, they are enabled to produce wood type of a superior quality to any other manufactured and to sell them from twenty five to fifty per cent less than former prices. Their specimen book exhibits a greater variety of plain and ornamental JOB TYPE, than any other heretofore published in this or any other country, and will be furnished to customers on application. They first introduced WOOD TYPE into this country in 1827, and now have the gratification of seeing them used throughout the Union—giving universal satisfaction. They being cut upon the end of the wood, are more durable than metal type, much more convenient in using, less liable to injury, and cost much less. D. WELLS & CO., particularly invite a comparison of their type with those recently introduced into this city by Mr. Nesbitt, the agent of the Manufacturer who modestly assumes that his are the only type manufactured by machinery, and are thereby superior to any other. It is necessary for us to say, that their machine was invented by us, and made by the same person we employed upon our four years since; and any Printer will perceive that the Specimen book published by him is an attempted imitation of ours from beginning to end. CAUTION.—Printers who order from Type Founders, should be particular to direct them to procure their WOOD LETTER from D. Wells & Co., who guarantee all type manufactured by them, to be perfect in every particular, or may be returned; and from the following list of prices. Printers will see that they are generally at least 25 per cent less than those furnished by any other establishment; and that Nesbitt's extended letter is nearly 50 per cent more than ours. Agents.—The following Agents for our establishment are kept constantly supplied with an assortment of wood type commonly used, and through whom all orders will be supplied: Messrs. Johnson and Smiths and Cobb and Ecklin, Philadelphia; A. Jayne, Pittsburgh; Charles Carter, Baltimore; Morgan Bates, Detroit; N. Guildford, Cincinnati; D. Hobb, Louisville; Lawrence and Hill, New Orleans; Richard Oliphant, Oswego. Terms, 6 months credit, or 7 per cent. off for cash. G. & W. RICHARDSON. oct. 5.

WELLS & CO., particularly invite a comparison of their type with those recently introduced into this city by Mr. Nesbitt, the agent of the Manufacturer who modestly assumes that his are the only type manufactured by machinery, and are thereby superior to any other. It is necessary for us to say, that their machine was invented by us, and made by the same person we employed upon our four years since; and any Printer will perceive that the Specimen book published by him is an attempted imitation of ours from beginning to end. CAUTION.—Printers who order from Type Founders, should be particular to direct them to procure their WOOD LETTER from D. Wells & Co., who guarantee all type manufactured by them, to be perfect in every particular, or may be returned; and from the following list of prices. Printers will see that they are generally at least 25 per cent less than those furnished by any other establishment; and that Nesbitt's extended letter is nearly 50 per cent more than ours. Agents.—The following Agents for our establishment are kept constantly supplied with an assortment of wood type commonly used, and through whom all orders will be supplied: Messrs. Johnson and Smiths and Cobb and Ecklin, Philadelphia; A. Jayne, Pittsburgh; Charles Carter, Baltimore; Morgan Bates, Detroit; N. Guildford, Cincinnati; D. Hobb, Louisville; Lawrence and Hill, New Orleans; Richard Oliphant, Oswego. Terms, 6 months credit, or 7 per cent. off for cash. G. & W. RICHARDSON. oct. 5.

WOODEN TYPE.—PRICE REDUCED.—D. Wells & Co., 25 Ann St., New York, inform the Printers of the United States, that by the aid of their Machine Type Cutter, they are enabled to produce wood type of a superior quality to any other manufactured and to sell them from twenty five to fifty per cent less than former prices. Their specimen book exhibits a greater variety of plain and ornamental JOB TYPE, than any other heretofore published in this or any other country, and will be furnished to customers on application. They first introduced WOOD TYPE into this country in 1827, and now have the gratification of seeing them used throughout the Union—giving universal satisfaction. They being cut upon the end of the wood, are more durable than metal type, much more convenient in using, less liable to injury, and cost much less. D.
